Air Station Cape Cod

Congratulations on your orders to become a new member of the “Guardians of the New England Coast”

Coast Guard Air Station Cape Cod was established in 1970 as one of several tenant commands at the Massachusetts Military Reservation when Air Station Salem, MA and Air Detachment Quonset Point, RI were consolidated here. Since the Air Force vacated the base in 1973 “Cape Cod Air” has evolved into the largest active-duty military command on the Massachusetts Military Reservation.

Air Station crews fly both helicopters and fixed-wing aircraft to perform a variety of Coast Guard missions. The primary mission, Search & Rescue (SAR), involves the protection of life and property in the offshore areas from the Canadian boarder to central New Jersey. Since 1970, Air Station Cape Cod each year has averaged 316 SAR cases, 110 lives assisted/saved, and $15 million in property rescued. These statistics make “Cape Air” one of the busiest SAR units in the country.

On April 24, 1992 Air Station Cape Cod went operational with four Sikorsky HH-60J “Jayhawk” helicopters replacing the three HH-3F “Pelican” helicopters that served proudly. Air Station Cape Cod also employs 4 HU-25 “Guardian” Falcon jets that came on line in 1982. All eight aircraft are used for multi-mission's to include, SAR, Maritime law/fisheries enforcement, Pollution response, Aids to Navigation support, Anti-drug enforcement operations, Logistical support, and International ice patrol operations.

The Air Station encompasses over 1400 acres, 425 buildings, and 18.5 miles of paved roads. Our housing units provide homes for all five branches of the military, NOAA, and USPHS. The Coast Guard operates most support services on base including the medical clinic, base exchange, grocery annex, gas station/mini-mart, movie theater, child care center, library, chapel, golf course, woodcraft shop, gymnasium, temporary lodging, and the activities center that includes a bowling alley, game room, and snackbar.

Air Station Cape Cod on the Internet

Air Station Cape Cod has a home page on the internet that has a wealth of detailed information and photos not covered in this package. You can “surf” the Air Station at www.uscg.mil/d1/units/ascapecod.

Base History

WHAT'S IN A NAME? A BIT OF HISTORY...

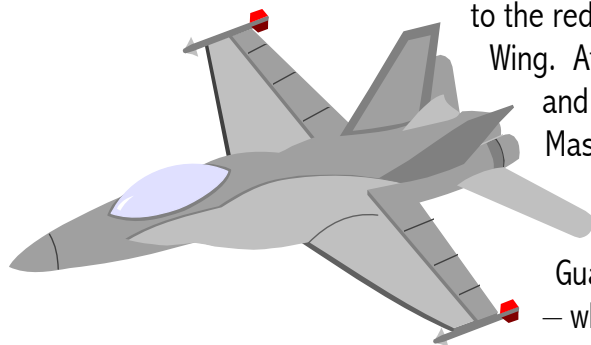

The Massachusetts Military Reservation (MMR) is the collective title given to the state-owned, 22,000-acre military installation located on Upper Cape Cod. The newcomer to the MMR may be confused, however, upon hearing the base referred to as “Otis”, “Camp Edwards” or “Air Station Cape Cod”.

The State of Massachusetts began acquiring the land that is now MMR in 1935 and by 1940 had established a state Army National Guard training site here. The post was named Camp Edwards in honor of Major General Clarence Edwards, the Commander of the famed 26th “Yankee” Infantry Division of World War I. The installation saw intense activity during WWII and the Korean War. Barracks for over 70,000 troops were constructed and a 1700-bed hospital was assembled. Camp Edwards served as one of the nation’s largest convalescent facilities for troops returning from Europe in 1945.

The airfield at Camp Edwards was completed in 1938 during the initial base construction. It was named Otis Field, honoring Harvard graduate and Boston City Hospital surgeon LT Frank Jesse Otis, Jr., who was killed in 1937 when his observation aircraft crashed in Illinois while serving as a Massachusetts National Guard pilot. The Air Force acquired the airfield portion of the installation in 1948 during a period of Army postwar inactivity on the base. In 1935 the majority of facilities on the installation changed hands to the Air Force leaving

Camp Edwards reduced to a smaller area in the northern corner of what was then Otis Air Force Base (AFB).

The Air Force officially deactivated Otis AFB in 1973, thereby passing control of the airfield to the redesignated 102nd ANG Fighter Interceptor Wing. At the same time the 26th Aviation Battalion and Army Aviation Support Facility of the Massachusetts Army National Guard moved from Fitchburg, MA to Otis thus uniting the three major tenants – Air National Guard, Army National Guard and Coast Guard – who occupy the base today. In the late 1970's several other unit's made their homes at Otis including the 1st Battalion, 25th Marines and the USAF's Cape Cod Air Force Station which constructed its PAVE PAWS radar installation in the flat rock area of Camp Edwards.

In 1980 Otis AFB was officially renamed Otis Air National Guard Base (ANGB). The installation as a whole was designated the Massachusetts Military Reservation with all commands operating independently and none designated as senior. Through cooperation and formal agreement the responsibilities of maintaining the installation are shared, with each unit maintaining its respective parcel of the MMR.

Living On Base

Family Housing

Coast Guard and Department of Defense personnel occupy 629 family housing units on the Massachusetts Military Reservation. The Family Housing area is comprised of single ranch, single flat-top, and multiplex townhouse units with full basements and private yards in a wooded setting. Each housing site has adequate parking, and playgrounds are located within walking distance from each complex. Two chain-link-fence storage areas are available for recreational vehicle and boat storage.

Housing at Air Station Cape Cod is assigned by pay grade, family size, control date, and current Interservice Support Agreements in accordance with the Coast Guard Housing Manual. On-base housing is mandatory for Coast Guard personnel. Applications for release will be evaluated on a case by case basis. Members from other services must submit their housing applications to their local housing authority before securing housing in the private sector.

Applications for military family housing for Coast Guard personnel consist of forms CG5267 (Application for Assignment to Military Housing), CG4170 (Record of Emergency Data), and a copy of PCS orders (This may be a copy of your message orders until a hard copy of orders can be provided). The CG5267 can be found in the forms section of the Work Station III Coast Guard computer, retrieved from the Coast Guard Headquarters website

(USCG.mil), or from your pers, admin, or housing office. For DOD personnel, DD Form 1746 and a copy of orders are required. These forms should be submitted to the Housing Office prior to the member's detachment from their previous unit.

Due to high transfer rates during the summer a moderate delay in housing assignment may be encountered for E-7 and above personnel. This is due to the limited housing available, the departure dates of outgoing personnel, and turn around time for each housing unit. To minimize the wait it is recommended that the Housing Office be contacted at (508) 968-6505 as soon as possible after orders are received to Air Station Cape Cod.

Off-base rental housing, as in many resort areas, is at a premium and therefore very costly. Weekly summer rentals can cost as much as monthly rentals during the winter. The Housing office maintains a listing of yearly/seasonal rentals in the local area.

Air Station Cape Cod offers Temporary Quarters through the Coast Guard Morale, Welfare, and Recreation (MWR) office.

For those interested in the local housing market, a few real estate agencies are Kinlin Grover (508) 888-1555, Century 21 (800) 439-2524, and Remax (508) 540-3377.

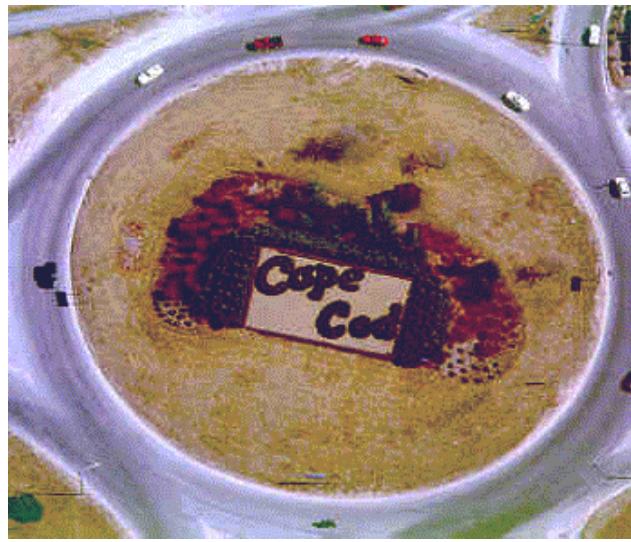

UNACCOMPANIED PERSONNEL HOUSING (UPH)

Stiles/Tate BEQ rooms, as well as a limited number of BOQ rooms are available for single Coast Guard personnel in building 3159 Stiles/Tate Barracks. This facility is a two-minute walk from the air station hangar and office areas. BOQ personnel occupy single rooms with shared heads. BEQ personnel occupy double occupancy rooms with one large common head on each floor. The Stiles/Tate Barracks complex also includes berthing for the air station ready crews, an aircrew lounge, an enlisted TV room/lounge and an exercise room. In addition the award-winning galley (three years in a row), mess deck, and wardroom are all located in Building 3159.

When barracks space is unavailable, single personnel are eligible to occupy the air station's unaccompanied personnel housing (UPH). This housing consists of 49 two-bedroom townhouse units located within the family housing area. Active duty members sharing these double-occupancy units are jointly responsible for the care and upkeep of the townhouse.

Air Station Cape Cod personnel who desire assignment to UPH must first check in with the barracks MAA. They will be assigned a barracks room if one is available, and will be placed on a waiting list for UPH. For more information about UPH, contact the Housing Office at \(508\) 968-6505.

For more information about single personnel quarters, contact the barracks Master at Arms (MAA) at \(508\) 968-6430.

Chaplain Services

New arrivals often do not realize that Cape Cod is the vacation spot of the Northeast and that each year thousands of vacationers spend hundreds of dollars to spend just a few days of fun in the sun. Getting orders here gives you this free of charge! But this great vacation spot can become a burdensome place as it can be very isolating and alienating. That is why COMMUNITY is so important. The Chaplain's Office is charged with community building and your personal well being.

The Community Chapel is the focal point for the religious services here on the base. It is located on South Inner Road near the Falmouth gate. This beautifully remodeled World War II Chapel is the home for both Protestant and Catholic congregations, each offering a full range of programs. Adjacent to the chapel are the Chapel Support buildings. The chapel support buildings are the home for the Religious Education programs and the community center for both congregations. They are also used for support group meetings.

Catholic Mass is held on Sunday mornings at 9am, followed by Protestant Worship Service at 10:30am.

The chaplain is always available for personal or family counseling as well as spiritual direction. Appointments and other information can be obtained by calling our office at \(508\) 968-6341.

Employee Assistance Program (EAP Office)

The Employee Assistance Program (EAP) is part of the Coast Guard's Work Life Program. Each Integrated Support Command (ISC) has a Work Life Office and an EAP Coordinator. It is a base-wide service co-located with the Chaplain's office in building 5216. This program provides short-term counseling services and information referral to all active duty, family members and retired military personnel living on or around the MMR.

The EAP coordinator helps develop proactive and preventive programs that promote family wellness and enhance family functioning. Our services can provide you help with problems such as:

Emotional
Family
Financial
New Job Assignment

Relationship
Alcohol
Job Concerns
PCS Moves

For information or to request services, contact the EAP office at (508) 968-6541 or 968-6341. The regular working hours are from 0730-1600, five days a week with night hours on an as-needed basis.

Cape Cod Public Schools

Each of the 15 towns on the Cape maintains its own school system. Children who live on base and choose to attend public schools do so in the school system of the town of Bourne. There are two schools on the Massachusetts Military Reservation which are presently operated by Bourne Public Schools. Otis Memorial School serves all kindergarten for those who live on base and residents of Bourne as well as grades 1-4 for residents on base, phone at (508) 563-2206. The Bourne Middle School contains grades five through eight, phone at (508) 759-0690. The Bourne High School, located nearby in the town of Bourne, is attended by nearly 600 students in grades nine through twelve, phone at (508) 759-0670. Bourne School Committee meetings are held on the first Wednesday of each month and are open to the public. The administrative offices of the Bourne Public Schools are located at 36 Sandwich Rd, Bourne, MA 02532, Phone # (508) 759-0660.

This includes credit-by-examination tests such as CLEP, DSST, and ACT-PEP, as well as national admissions testing programs such as SAT, ACT, GRE, and GMAT. All testing programs are currently free-of-charge for USCG active duty members and their spouses (subject to some restrictions).

For those interested in traditional, classroom-based college courses, there are several options available to the Cape Cod resident. The nearest college is Cape Cod Community College (CCCC) located approximately 30 minutes from the base in Hyannis. CCCC is a 2-year school offering associate's degrees in business, liberal arts, and sciences. Additionally, two off-cape, 4-year institutions offer classes and degree programs at CCCC.

At other times the weapon may be stored in family housing or off-base quarters. A Massachusetts firearms identification card must be obtained to store or transport handguns within the state. Other Commands on MMR and in local area:

U. S. Coast Guard Northeast Regional Fisheries Training Center (NRFTC)

The NRFTC has a complement of 15 personnel and offers residential training in Living Marine Resources Enforcement and Maritime Law Enforcement. The Training Center provides training to First District units, Fifth District units, and area cutters. These courses are provided to increase the fisheries & law enforcement abilities of boarding team members and aircrews.

NRFTC instructors also deploy on District and area cutters, and travel to small-boat stations to meet the needs of various exportable training requests.

For more information about NRFTC call \(508\) 968-6602.

Post Commander, Camp Edwards, Massachusetts Army National Guard

The mission of Camp Edwards is to provide a year-round combat training site for all Reserve Components of the Armed Forces. Since training areas are at a premium in the Northeast, Camp Edwards continues to be heavily utilized by units that require large areas of land to conduct exercises. The post's 14,700 acres provide room enough to accommodate two infantry and two artillery battalions simultaneously.

Aviation Brigade, 26th Infantry Division, Massachusetts National Guard

In 1975, the Aviation Battalion of the 26th Infantry Division was relocated from Fitchburg, MA to Otis. Reorganized as the Aviation Brigade, 26th (Yankee) Infantry Division in 1986, the organization trains in various locations throughout New England to become tactically proficient in its primary mission: to find, fix, and destroy enemy forces, using maneuvers to concentrate and sustain combat power at the critical time and place.

Brigade Headquarters is located on General's Way. Total authorized strength is 1423 soldiers of which 989 are stationed in Massachusetts.

Cape Cod Air Force Station – Pave Paws

Cape Cod Air Force Station is located atop Flatrock Hill in the northeast corner of the MMR. Home of the 6th Missile Warning Squadron (MWS), CCAFS is one of four Pave Paws sights located in the United States.

Pave Paws was developed by the Air Force and constructed by Raytheon Corporation to provide early warning of a Sea-Launched Ballistic Missile (SLBM) attack on the continental United States.

Sector Southeastern New England

Although not physically located on the MMR, Sector SENE is an integral member of the MMR family. Located at the southwestern tip of Cape Cod, at the beginning of the Elizabethan Island chain. Sector SENE is one of the largest groups in the United States, covering the coastline from Duxbury, Massachusetts to the south, and the Rhode Island/Connecticut border to the east. It consists of 15 subordinate commands, including 9 multi-mission Stations, 2 Aids-to-Navigation Teams (ANTS), 3 patrol boats, and 1 Long Range Aids-to-

Navigation (LORAN) Station. Sector coordinates the efforts of each of these units and provides operational, administrative, supply and engineering support to them. As part of the "One Coast Guard Concept," the Sector is also supported by Coast Guard Reservists, Civilians and members of the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

A total of approximately 350 Active duty, 150 Reserve, 6 Civilian and 1600 Auxiliary personnel work within the Sector responding primarily to search and rescue, boat safety, law enforcement, homeland security and aids to navigation missions.

The Cape Cod Community

Cape Cod is many things to many people. Thousands of summer visitors see it as sunny beaches, quaint towns with interesting shops, and a variety of entertainment opportunities. Perhaps more characteristic of Cape Cod are the residents: quiet, self sufficient, and individualistic. In either case, Cape Cod offers much for both the tourist and resident alike, especially for those personnel assigned to Air Station Cape Cod.

Physically, Cape Cod curls into the Atlantic for 70 miles. South of it lies Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard and the Elizabethan Islands, which guard the entrance to Buzzards Bay. The Cape Cod Canal joins Buzzards Bay and Cape Cod Bay, technically making Cape Cod an Island.

The land area of the Cape is 339 square miles or 255,360 acres. There are approximately 150,000 year-round residents, but that number increases 3 times during the height of the summer tourist season.

The Cape has 15 townships, which constitute the County of Barnstable. Many of the townships, established two or three centuries ago, are divided into villages, which, although more widely known than the towns, are not politically autonomous. Each village offers a lifestyle and atmosphere of its own; broadly speaking, the villages along the shore of Cape Cod Bay retain the flavor of the past centuries, while those along the shores of the Vineyard and Nantucket Sounds are livelier, with more mercantile, banking, and tourist facilities. All Cape Cod towns are governed by town meetings, and the chief executive officers in each town are either elected selectmen or town managers.

Boating

There are several harbors where boats can be moored. Many people trailer their boats to one of the many public or town ramps that are on both sides of the Cape's shores, and also on many of the ponds. Canoeing is popular on the ponds as well. Several marinas and coves provide shelter and services to the large number of boaters that gather every summer. Boaters should make themselves aware of registration requirements, and required safety equipment before venturing out.

Hunting

The Cape area is abundant in migratory birds and waterfowl that can be taken in season. There are also deer to be hunted, including a short season on the MMR in the more remote parts of the base. State licenses are required and federal bird stamps to hunt migrating waterfowl.

Beaches

Thousands of vacationers head for the Cape's 300 miles of sandy beaches each year, which make this "narrow land" an ideal place for water-skiing, sunbathing, walking for miles along uncrowded beaches or beach bugging (vehicle permits are required).

Swimmers find Cape waters to be both beautiful and refreshing. Along the south shore, sea temperatures average 70 degrees- making them the warmest waters north of Virginia Beach. On the north shore the water is found to be "invigorating", with wide expanses of sand and large dune formations to be explored.

Water safety goes hand-in-hand with the Cape's growth as a resort area. Excellent lifeguard protection is offered at most beaches, while almost all towns offer Red Cross-supervised swimming programs.

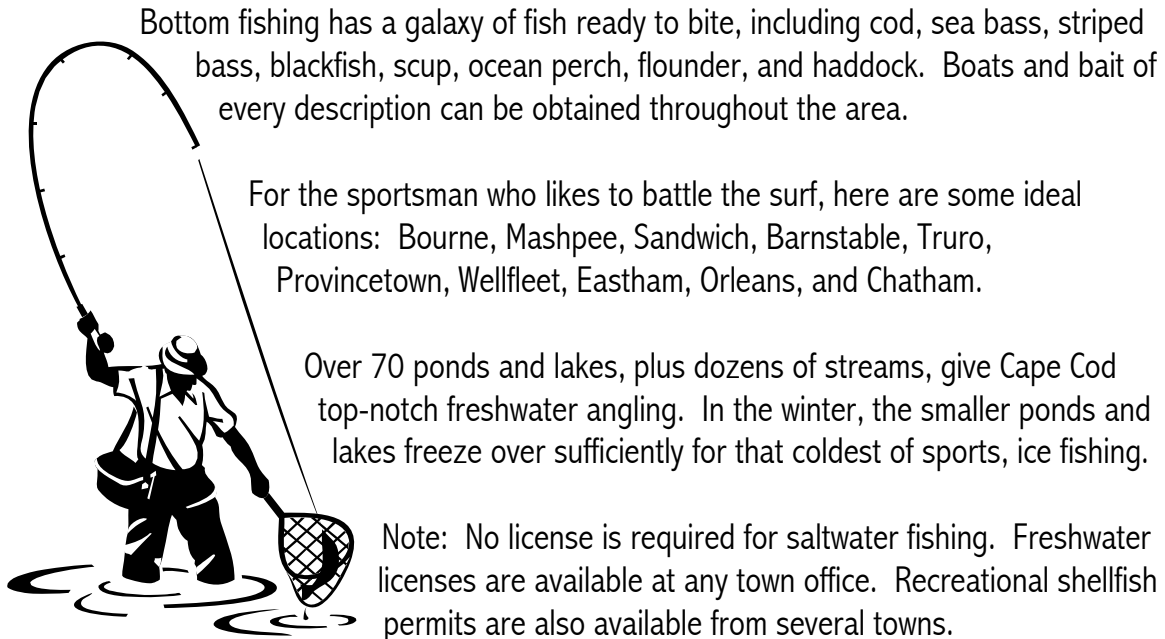

Golfing

There are literally dozens of high-quality public golf courses on the Cape. Many of these courses provide a beautiful view of the Cape's seashores. The price's to play these courses range from reasonable to costly and vary with the seasons.

Fishing

All types of fishing, including game, bottom, freshwater, surf, and even ice fishing are available and excellent on Cape Cod. Game fish are no more than an hour from any Cape port. Common to these waters are: striped bass, bluefin tuna, bluefish, mackerel, pollack, blue marlin, white marlin, bonita, and swordfish.
